

LONDON metropolitan university

Ireland in the New Millennium

An introductory Day School
in Irish Studies

4 June 2005

íRish
studies centre

Ireland in the New Millennium

An introductory Day School in Irish Studies

London Metropolitan University
Tower Building
Holloway Road, London N7

Saturday 4th June 2005

10am - 4pm

Fee: £25 (£15 concessions)

No prior qualifications are required to attend

The aim of the Day School is to provide prospective students with a sample of the kind of topics and methods used in the teaching and learning of Irish Studies at London Metropolitan University. You will hear three members of the Irish Studies team speak about their respective areas of expertise and you will have the opportunity to engage in discussion with tutors and other students in small seminar groups throughout the day.

Day School programme

10am	Welcome
10.30	Where Now for the Peace Process...? (Jonathan Moore)
11.45	Coffee/Tea Break
12 noon	Changing Ireland: Home and Abroad (Mary Hickman)
1.15	Lunch
2.15	In a State of Flux: Irish Culture and Identities Today (Tony Murray)
3.30	Irish Studies at London Metropolitan University (Tea/Coffee)
4pm	Close

How to book

Name

Address

Postcode

Email

Special dietary requirements (e.g. vegetarian)

I enclose a cheque/postal order for £_____ payable to
LONDON METROPOLITAN UNIVERSITY

I would like to pay by credit card ☐ /debit card ☐

Exact Name on card

Card Number (at least 16 digits)

Valid From Date

Expiry Date

Issue Number (if applicable)

CVS Code (last 3 digits of number on sig. strip)

Customer address as held by card company (if different to above)

We regret we cannot accept American Express or Diners Club credit cards or Electron debit cards.

Please return this form along with a stamped addressed envelope to :

Kathy O'Regan

Irish Studies Centre

London Metropolitan University

Tower Building, Holloway Rd, London N7 8DB

For further information and bookings forms please telephone 020 7133 2913 or email k.elsner@londonmet.ac.uk

Some forthcoming courses in Irish Studies at London Metropolitan University...

Diploma of Higher Education in Irish Studies

This six-module undergraduate programme offers a range of study from four subject areas: history and politics; literature and culture; migration and the Irish abroad; contemporary Irish society. This course can be taken either by students wishing to update or refresh their knowledge of Irish Studies or by students wishing to accumulate a credit towards a degree qualification in other humanities or social science programmes.

You can enrol to commence this course in either September or January.

Further information available from Jonathan Moore:
tel: 020 7133 2773; e-mail: j.moore@londonmet.ac.uk

10th Anniversary Irish Writers in London Summer School

First established by the Irish Studies Centre in 1996, the summer school runs for two nights per week for six weeks and aims to provide an informal but informative setting for students wishing to study Irish literature over the summer. The course consists of a mixture of lectures, seminars, readings and cultural activities.

Each week an established Irish writer comes to read and speak about their work to the students. Two evenings prior to this, students read, discuss and analyse extracts of the writer's work with the course tutor. Students read and learn about a broad spectrum of Irish writing including fiction, autobiography, drama, travel writing and poetry and gain valuable insights into the different approaches such types of writing involve.

Our special guest writer at the Summer School in 2005 will be Edna O'Brien.

Further information available from Kathy O'Regan:
tel: 020 7133 2913 email: k.elsner@londonmet.ac.uk