(5 minutes from Holloway Road tube station, Piccadilly Line)

Who

Speakers include:

John Hume (SDLP), David Trimble (Ulster Unionist), Marjory Mowlam (Labour Party), Mitchel McLaughlin (Sinn Féin), Paul Bew (Queen's University), Brendan O'Leary (LSE), Fionnuala O Connor (Author), Suzanne Breen (Irish Times)

Why

The conference organisers, the Irish Studies Centre of the University of North London, hope that the conference will foster and encourage:

- participation in the debates about the future of Northern Ireland by the Irish communities in Britain.
- a forum in Britain for contributions from academics, politicians, journalists and others interested in future developments in Northern Ireland.

Format on Saturday

Discussion panels will address a range of issues including:

- what are the constitutional models for NI
- Unionism and British politics
- the future of policing in Northern Ireland
- the issue of the veto versus self determination
- the role of culture in a changing Ireland
- a new Irish national identity?

There will be a crèche available on Saturday (4th). Please book in advance.

Conference Fee (to include cost of reception on Friday evening)
£30; £15 (concessions).
