

British Association
for Irish Studies

August 1992

Ireland is this year enthusiastically celebrating the 400th birthday of Trinity College, Dublin.

In October the anniversary will be marked in London by a lecture series examining Trinity past and present: this has been organised jointly by the British Association for Irish Studies and TCD Organisations in London.

The BAIS and Trinity are delighted by the happy co-operation that is enabling tribute to be paid in Britain to this great institution. The lectures will be stimulating, provocative and entertaining. We enclose a leaflet.
