Dear Mrs McCormack,

Thank you for your letter of 16 November.

I shall be very happy to become an Honorary Patron of the Fermanagh Association in London. My territorial claims in Fermanagh are small. Kilmore has only two and a half parishes there. But the people are among the very best in the diocese and my visits down there are always pleasant. Incidentally, I presume that Bishop Duffy of Clogher is already a Patron. His is the major interest in Fermanagh.

I shall be attending the Leitrim annual function in London next week. If you are there, do come and talk to me. Best wishes and God bless you all,
Yours sincerely,

+ Francis Jackman
